Cheaters Never Prosper
When Diamonds Bore You
Current Events
By Arthur Brisbane

EDISON HAS his mind on flying. May it be many years before he starts his great flight. The helicopter will let men rise straight up from the earth. Engines can't do that. We shall fly at speed undreamed of now, and the flying machine will revolutionize civilization.

ALL THAT he says is true and much more. But the revolution in civilization will come in men's brains, and come slowly. It won't come through machinery, although that will help.

MEN INVENTED machines that ought to have freed the slaves. But they fasten wage slaves to the machine. They invented flying machines, and their first real use was dropping T. M. T. and poison gas on other white men and on savages. Science moves swiftly, the brain moves slowly, and civilization moves slowly with it.

WE MAY NOT get our money from Europe so fast. France asks for terms better than those we gave England. Ten years more before beginning of payment is one suggestion from France.

And then, in 1936, when payments begin, if they begin, their amount will depend on the amount of the real gold that France gets from Germany, and from the Allies, while borrowing from us.

And what's more, says England, before France pays us anything, she ought to pay all she owes to Great Britain. We shall probably wait for that money.

THE MOST RECENT convert to the "cheaters never prosper" theory is Captain Arthur, British "side" of the Indian Prince, who was robbed of $250,000, frightened out of the money, because of his acquaintance with a young English married woman.

CAPTAIN J. C. ARTHUR, the aide, got $200,000 of the loot and took it to Paris. There the card sharpers, more cunning cheaters than he, took him, and got the money away from him. He is in poverty; says he has lost everything.

THE POOR RAJAH, Hari Singh, also has his troubles, apart from money troubles, attached to the young lady to whom he was attached. He may lose the throne of Kashmir, and that isn't the worst of it.

His faithful followers don't like the thought of their Rajah handing out lumps of money to a female gladiator. His plight is sad. He has lost his blonde lady and his $750,000, lost his reputation, will probably lose his throne, and may lose his life.

And all for one young straight-nosed, blue eyes and curly yellow hair.

Heaven of Troy and Cleopatra, even back reincarnated, not improved.

WHEN you can afford diamonds, you don't care about them.

Samuel H. Lefkowitz of New York got pretty rich and had French dentists put some diamonds in his front teeth. Now he's richer, and his glittering smile bores him.

He says he wishes to be "more exclusive" and will have the diamonds removed.

Fitzsimmons, the prize fighter, had diamonds put in his back teeth.

He never got rich, and always enjoyed pulling back his cheek to show the diamonds in the big back teeth.

HERE the other day it was suggested that some in-

CONCORD BRIBE CASE

Vigilantes Patrol Concord

RED BUGS TERRORIZE CITIZENS

Because an incendiary band terrorized Concord residents to the point where women are afraid to sleep at night, citizens of Concord have formed a vigilance committee and are patrolling the streets after dark.

Reward of $1,000 Is Offered for Clue to Identity of Culprits

A total of 162 fire alarms in seven months—a number greatly exceeding that of any previous seven-month period—is an indication of the thoroughness with which the fire bugs have worked.

In the past few weeks the mysterious night and early morning fires have been followed by a series of gasoline-soaked cars being found blazing beneath verandas, in hallways and against the sides of buildings.

REWARD OFFERED.
A reward of $1,000 has been offered for the apprehension of the fire bugs, but this far combined efforts of the police and vigilantes have failed to obtain even the slightest clue to their identities.

The vigilance committee was formed at a meeting called by the Rev. Carl Oland of the Trinitarian Congregational Church, following the burning of the church several weeks ago.

MYSTERY FIRES.
Black's block in Walden street, opposite the Central Fire Station, has been the scene of two mysterious early morning fires.

A house at No. 3 Hubbard street was fired in the early hours, and three elderly women, Miss Emma W. Kelly, Miss Helen W. Kelly and Mrs. Ellen F. Whitney, who were sleeping, narrowly escaped with their lives.

Old-fashioned cotton waste was found blowing inside the front door and another ball of blasting waste was found at the rear.

A number of other residences, barns and sheds have fallen prey to the fanatic, the first usually being set on fire or nearly so, before the chances of pedestrian being abroad are rare.

The $1,000 reward offered by the town of Concord for apprehension of the firebug is expected to bring the police a "tip" that may lead to their capture.

Use of Substitutes Cuts Consumption of Hard Coal

Hazleton, Pa., Dec. 3.—Substitutes for anthracite coal, such as oil, coke, bituminous coal and electricity are affecting the hard coal trade, field agents of the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company report.

One representative reported sales of anthracite in the great Lake region this year would not be more than 50 per cent. of the amount used the preceding year.

Notwithstanding these conditions, nearly all of the mines of the anthracite district are being operated on steady time.

SUED BY WIFE FOR BALM SUED BY WIFE

Haverhill, Dec. 3.—Ten thousand dollars is the valuation which Mrs. A. Gertrude Hurlbut of this city placed upon the affections of her husband, Gordon R. Hurlbut.

She has filed suit for that amount against Desires Anita Noyes Mills of Newburyport, whom she accuses of alienating the affections of her husband.

Mrs. and Mr. Hurlbut formerly lived in Newburyport and the defendant was a neighbor of theirs in that community. Since she came to Haverhill, Mrs. Hurlbut has been working as a nurse.

Mrs. Hurlbut sets forth that the defendant wrongfully intended to lure her, to deprive her of the comfort, society, assistance and support of her husband and unlawfully and unjustly gained the affections and confidence of her husband and induced him to leave home.

MRS. MILLS' ANSWER.
Mrs. Hurlbut says her husband's love had been alienated and destroyed, causing her much distress. Mrs. Mills, in Newburyport, today seemed highly amused at the idea of being sued for $10,000 as well as at the accusations of Mrs. Hurlbut.

I am not averring a particle about the case," she said. "Mr. Hurlbut had no right to sue me for alienating his affections. He decided against her. I very much doubt whether the suit against me will ever come to trial; however, it isn't bothering me the least bit."

WED. NAVAL MAN.
Mrs. Mills is about twenty-eight, of fair complexion and slight build. She expects to become a divorcee next month. When she was decided against her, she says she doesn't know where he is now and says she doesn't care.

CHAUFFEUR LAWSON'S DEFENDED BY LETTER MOVE

U. S. Officials Probe Telegram From Capitalist Vouching for Alleged Rum-Runner

A telegram purporting to have been sent by Joseph Letter, capitalist, vouching for his chauffeur, John W. Collins of Salem, sought in connection with the landing of liquor on the Letter Beverly Farms estate, was being investigated by Federal officials today.

According to Frank Vennart of Boston, local agent of the capitalist, the telegram was received in response to a message sent by him concerning information he had obtained regarding liquor robberies at the Beverly Farms estate.

Included in this information was an affidavit from an employee of the estate, who says he saw Collins, another man described as Letter's secretary, and a stranger land liquor and store in the Letter cellar.

The Federal authorities, following a raid in which they seized the liquor on the Letter estate, announced they were convinced it had been used as a base by rum-runners.

ABSOLUTE LETTER.
Assistant U. S. District Attorney Joseph V. Carroll pointed out that the chauffeur did not suspect Letter of having been involved in any way by the action of employees on his estate, but believe he does not realize what has been going on there.

In his telegram Letter said he would be responsible for the acts of his chauffeur, but told Vennart to discharge the watchman, Allen J. Harris of Malden.

Harris was arrested by the Beverly police charged with the larceny of $10,000 worth of liquor from the "Chicago millionaire's" Summer estate, and was arraigned in Superior court today. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $10,000 bail for a hearing December 15.

William T. McGowan, counsel for Harris, declared that when the first robbery took place, his client, employed by a Boston private service, was at home. On the second visit of the hijackers, he said, Harris was asleep and knew nothing.

It is understood that Customs Dept. officers, December 15, will continue on Page 3, Column 1.

Stitches of Gold Heal Girl's Heart

Suit Dropped After an Agreement Reached at the Eleventh Hour

Here is the third chapter of the thrilling career of Thomas W. Lawson, sometime hero of American financiers, who now is close to poverty in his lovely island retreat off the coast of Maine, broken in body and mind and gone forever from the whirl of state street.

In preceding chapters the Boston American has told of his first adventures in the business world—hoarding gold in a Boston banking house, and his $500,000 gamble, today the surrender is complete.

Succeeding chapters will bare his surprising adventures in the world of finance, his exploits in the market pit with the bulls and bears.

THE "BULL MOVEMENT"
WHEN the smoke of the fatal plunge into Boston Water stock had been dispelled and the ashes that marked a great hope had cooled, Tom Lawson, who had the importance of his juvenile sixteen years, called his cohorts together for a council of war.

There is no question but that the old oyster house at State and Devon streets was a bit the better through these juvenile market plungers, for the extent of their losses with the promoter was not more than a few hundred dollars, which they received a very satisfactory oyster stew.

Gilded stitches have at last healed the broken places in the heart of Miss Frances C. Downing, Brooklyn girl, who brought suit for $50,000 against Arthur W. Burke, wealthy journalist, charging him with the breach of promise to wed.

According to counsel, the case has been settled out of court, and all sides are satisfied. The settlement means money when the case was due to come up before Judge Qua in the Suffolk County Superior court. The settlement was made at the eleventh hour.

It was in July, 1922, that Burke and Miss Louise May, charming widow of Charles May, Boston hotel man, were secretly wed. According to the story of the bride, they were married on the first of that month and then "eloped by motor to New York and Long Island."

Not long after that Miss Downing left her suit for $50,000, charging Burke had failed to keep his promise to marry her. Through her counsel she declared Burke was a wonderful lover.

Counsel on both sides refuse to disclose the amount of the settlement, but it is said to be several thousand dollars.

Police on Trail of Third Man in Case Involving Representative Dinsmore

A second arrest in the alleged bribery plot for which Representative Robert E. Dinsmore of East Boston was indicted and arrested, was made today.

The prisoner is Morris E. Abber, a blacksmith of No. 404 Bennington street, East Boston. A third man, said to be a Boston legislator, is expected to be taken into custody within the next twelve hours.

Dinsmore and Abber appeared in the Superior Court today for arraignment.

It is charged that they and the third man accepted $500 from Harry Beyer, convicted bootlegger, to "fix" his case.

Representative Dinsmore is out on $1,000 bail after being indicted on a charge of being an accessory before and after the fact to the larceny of $500 from Harry Beyer on October 3 and conspiracy to steal the property of another.

Dinsmore, a World War veteran, has served one term in the Legislature and was re-elected at the general election last month. He is being held in the district attorney's office, waiting for the jury to try the case.

He is charged that they and the third man accepted $500 from Harry Beyer, convicted bootlegger, to "fix" his case.

ARMY SEEK SEPARATION FROM ARMY

By EDWIN J. CLAPP

Washington, Dec. 3 (Universal).—The Army Air Service is disappointed at the treatment it received in the report made to Secretary of War Weeks by General John J. Pershing as retiring chief of staff.

"Disappointed" is putting it mildly. None of the leaders in the air service put it so mildly. While wholly loyal to General Pershing, they cannot agree that the Air Service is fighting.

Therefore, they contend, the head of the army should be more candid and airplane than he should command satisfaction. Not in the most efficient of admirals, or a whole host of them, it is to command a navy air force, as they do today.

Score of letters in which the voice of the unhappy Thanksgiving Day they experienced, but which contained the hope that the family will be made happy at Christmas, through the medium of the Boston American Helping Hand Christmas Basket Fund, have been received in the office of this newspaper. I am placing all my hopes in you for a Christmas dinner. Please don't forget me."

DEER HUNTERS GET WILDCAT AND BEAR

Bear and wildcat were added to the bags of hunters on the second day of the deer hunting season in Massachusetts. Elmo V. Witta of Gardner shot a 50-pound cat in the woods near Hingham and collected a bounty of $5 offered by the county for killing these animals.

Dr. George L. Phillips and Henry Perkins of Springfield tagged a doe found near Hingham. The animal was reported as being shot by Vermont hunters. The largest number of deer killed during a hunting season in Massachusetts was reported at the end of the second day. Hunters flocked to the woods in the vicinity of Falmouth and twenty kills were reported in this area alone. Carver and South Carver have proved to be the most fruitful district for the sport.

SOLUTION FOR HUB TRAFFIC SKETCHED

Locke Would Resurface "L" and Rail Lines and Build Subways

Resurfacing of all steam roads and "L" lines within the metropolitan district and resurfacing in the city with the top of the rails of a width to permit two lines of traffic in each direction, was urged by Warren E. Locke at a hearing before the Committee on Motor Vehicle Traffic on proposals for the improvement of traffic conditions in Greater Boston, held in the State House.

Mr. Locke also would have the roads resurfaced with concrete, also urges a surfaced roadway between North and South ways and ample street connections with the business and market districts.

A subway for the exclusive use of motor vehicles under Boston Common, Beacon Hill and the Public Gardens, also is advocated with a subway terminal at Commonwealth avenue and Berkeley street. The plan would provide a northerly ter-mal at North Station and a connection with Cambridge street by utilizing the present entrance to the East Boston tunnel on Cambridge street.

Parking accommodations for several thousand automobiles under the Commons plan is provided for in the plan with passageways for persons using the parking space. These passageways will afford a safe road for pedestrians under Tremont street to the shopping district, in ways.

The plan also calls for a merger of the "L" and other required interests to establish a unit of transportation facilities to be operated under control of a public utility corporation entitled Boston Transit System.

"This corporation," Mr. Locke said, "may be authorized to issue long-term bonds to defray the cost of the expense of constructing the roads and other construction required." The cost of financing may be defrayed from proceeds of an authorized stock issue authorized for investment purposes.

He urged the appointment of a commission to investigate his plan and report on the legislative enactment not later than December 15, 1922.

MAN IS NEAR DEATH 4 MILES ON TRAIN

Clings to Closed Vestibule Till Seen Passing Station
at Natick

A passenger who refused to divulge his name was saved from injury by the prompt action of persons waiting at Natick station who saw him clinging to the rear vestibule of a Boston bound express train as it passed.

They notified the station agent and he had the train stopped at a tower beyond the station where the man was taken aboard suffering from exposure and weakened by the strain of his precarious position which he had held for more than four miles.

He told the trainmen that he had climbed on the rear coach just as the train was leaving Framingham station, only to find the vestibule door closed. The train continued on its way and he was unable to jump off, he said. He told his rescuers that he had just about made up his mind to let go as the train was stopped.

Buds of Other Days Rival Debs of 1924 at Dances Among Social-Elect

By BETTY ALDEN

ONE could travel far and wide and yet not find a more dainty figure than Miss Barbara Forbes as she appeared at the ball which the Paines Sprague gave for their debutante daughter the other morning.

Miss Forbes, who's a bud of last Winter, by the way, is a petite brunette. She wears her thick dark brown hair in a charmingly quaint style, piled rather high on her head and showing the tips of her ears. Her dancing frock is always in perfect accord with her color. They are distinctly reminiscent of grandmother's day, with their tight bodices and long full skirts.

The gown which Miss Forbes wore to the Sprague dance was unusually fetching. It was a pale yellow tulle, flowered with roses of a deeper yellow shade, with flounces of black lace at the neck and hem. The bodice was very closely fitting and the skirt very long and full.

ONE is tempted to call almost every debutante pretty even when the taste charm lies as much in her youthfulness and brightness of manner, as in her physical beauty. That Miss Elizabeth Sprague, for whom Mr. and Mrs. Paines Sprague gave the dance at the Hotel Somerset, made a rarely lovely vision at her debut. She is a slim brunette, perhaps a bit over medium height, and has features so dainty that they are quite camelike.

Naturally her brunette beauty was most effectively set off by the white gown she wore, a sleekly fitting creation fashioned in the straight-line mode so much the vogue these days. In the crush of the season's buds attending the dance was Miss Elizabeth Taylor, wearing blue who attended with her fiancé, Benjamin Taylor. Taylor was the very first bud of the season to become engaged, the interesting announcement being made last week by the William H. Taylor on the evening of their daughter's debut.

OTHER prominent debutantes at the Sprague dance were Miss Virginia Lee, in satin of electric blue and trimmed with shivers of matching white feathers; the Waterman twins, Miss Patricia Waterman and Miss Louise in pink; Miss Helen Kennerly, in yellow tulle, with a very wide collar; and Miss Eleanor Mason, wearing a simply cut gown of butterfly blue. Miss Alice Payson, in white; Miss Theodore Ayer, in a creation of shimmering silver with touches of pink; and Miss Ellen Frothingham in corse velvet.

Of the non-debutantes, whom I saw at the Sprague dance were tall and slender Margaret Blake and Eleanor Mason, a girl of one slender sparkle and talent, who is to play the leading role in "The Arcadians," which the Junior Promenade presents next week; Miss Mary Ward, wearing a robin's egg blue frock of silk and frothy tulle; and Miss Helen Stone were over her white gown a golden colored shawl. Just the right shade for her blonde hair.

Margery Richardson, one of the handsomest buds of two seasons ago, wore cranberry-red velvet, her hair of white and red. Miss Edith Parker was in silvery-blue satin.

Frederick R. Sears and his daughter, Miss Eleanor Sears, are back in town for the Winter at their Beacon street home after a late season at their Beverly Farms place.

Mr. and Mrs. Julia Codman and their two daughters, the Misses Lucy and Hester Codman, are to be for the coming season in Boston at No. 31 Line street.

Mr. Walter J. Mitchell of "Glandyne," Manchester-by-the-Sea, is leaving shortly for California, where she will remain for the rest of the cold season.

Dr. and Mrs. J. Bartol are giving a reception this afternoon at their Chestnut street home to present their two youngest daughters, the Misses Patricia and Ann Bartol.

Mr. Edward G. Gardner and his daughter, Mrs. H. W. Dwight Rust (Eugenia Gardner), are giving a reception tomorrow afternoon at the Vernon street home for Mrs. Gardner's niece, Miss Beatrice Gardner. The latter is the daughter of Mrs. Chandler Gardner of New York and Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond L. Whitman and Miss Alice Thorndike of Hamilton have gone down to Middleburg, Va., for the hunting.

THE TALENTED MISS PARKER
Miss Edith Parker, a debutante of last Winter, whose talent she is called upon for the two performances that the Civic Franchise of Harvard University is presenting at the Fine Arts Theatre today and tomorrow. Photo by Hinchman.

IF the buds can dance into the wee small hours with never-failing enthusiasm, I note that their older sisters, who came out a year or so ago, seem to be quite as keen about the debutante functions as the buds themselves.

And Mrs. Whitman generally spend the cold season at Palm Beach, Fla., and Mrs. Richardson about in Southern waters.

VISCOUNT CECIL TO GET FIRST WILSON AWARD

London, Dec. 2.—It is understood here that Viscount Cecil of Chelwood is to be the first recipient of the $25,000 annual award of the newly organized Woodrow Wilson Foundation.

The award goes to the "individual or group that has rendered the most service to peace through justice." It will be made at the annual dinner of the foundation on December 28, Woodrow Wilson's birthday. Fat Men Add Ton to Membership of Club

Nine new members added a ton to the total membership of United States Fat Men's Club at the American House. The initiates averaged 237 pounds, with Dr. W. E. Frost, weighing 273 pounds at the top.

The American House staff of waiters was kept busy all the evening. One of the staff, subling Jack Waite, how many fat men were present, was surprised to learn that there were only forty-six at the dinner.

LEVIATHAN WILL COME TO BOSTON FOR REPAIRS

Following the next trip to New York of the assembly Leviathan, queen of the American merchant fleet, about December 20, the big liner will be withdrawn from service and will come to Boston to be dry-docked.

While here she will be fitted with propellers of new design. The new wheels, with three blades and slightly different pitch, have been developed by naval experts after a long series of experiments. It is expected they will add one-half knot to her speed with the same power, or will give the same speed at 4,000 less horsepower.

BOSTON AMERICAN

NO LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

Tourists in Maine at present leave $50,000,000 in that State each year when they depart at an expense to the residents of only $25,000 annually for exploiting its advantages.

Every resident of the State will constitute himself a personal booster, whether child or patriarch, to sell to the world the beauties and hospitality of this Switzerland of America.

Beauties of Switzerland of America Will Be Sold to the World by Maine Minute Men

A NOTHER big industry has been born in New England.

From one angle it can be called New England's biggest industry.

Its "plant" covers 21,145,600 acres and, giving of their time and energy, are 768,000 workers. At the level of the sea and 5,285 feet above that level; in forests, on farms, in shops and on lakes and streams, the workers toil.

Nature's beauties, good health, multi-sports and the hospitality of the workers are the raw materials of this huge industry.

Millions of dollars in money and many more millions in good will, compose its profits.

The Minute Men of Maine are responsible for the establishment of this industry.

Discovering that Maine had something to sell the nation—Maine has set about selling it.

And the "something to sell" is Maine itself—the Switzerland of America—part of New England, the nation's playground.

Other New England States should look well into Maine's new project and profit thereby.

What the Minute Men of Maine are doing, can be duplicated in Massachusetts, in New Hampshire, in Vermont, in Rhode Island and in Connecticut.

Better still—a greater industry along the same line can be inaugurated through co-operation and all New England can be "sold" to the public.

A body of far-seeing men met in Augusta, Me., a few days ago.

As sponsor of the meeting and the idea was Governor-elect Ralph O. Brewster, who will be the youngest Governor in the country, but one, when he takes office.

Mayors of Maine cities, leading citizens of the State, railroad representatives—men whose names mean something in the Pine Tree State—were among those present.

All agreed that the greatest thing Maine has to sell to the nation and the world is Maine itself.

And all agreed that, having something to sell, Maine would tell the world about it.

Maine will be broadcast!

Not merely by newspapers, railroads and stump speakers or by professional boosters will the advantages of Maine be emblazoned forth.

Every resident of the State will constitute of himself a personal booster, whether child or patriarch.

Chiefly will this take the form of hospitality.

Maine residents will give visitors every evidence that their presence is not only welcome, but is highly desirable.

The tourist will be given every aid on his journey.

The vacationist will be made to feel entirely at home during his sojourn.

The unrivaled attractions of the rugged State will be charted for the visitor, that he may reach his destinations with a minimum of difficulty.

Every effort will be made by every individual in Maine to leave a pleasant taste in the mouths of its guests.

Best of all, the plan of the Maine Minute Men does not create a single additional State officer or any salaried officer.

Nor does it add expensive bureaus to the Maine State equipment.

Something to delight the taxpayers!

Maine already has a publicity bureau, but its scope and its funds are limited. Under the new plan to tell the world about Maine, this bureau will seek funds, $25,000, as it has been doing for three years.

Towns throughout the State will provide a fund of $100,000 by appropriation—which will not exceed one mill tax, under the law.

The State itself will appropriate $25,000 toward the work.

What does Maine get in return for putting up $150,000 annually to exploit itself and its advantages?

At present the tourists traversing Maine leave the huge sum of $50,000,000 in the State each year when they depart.

There are countless thousands, undoubtedly, throughout the nation, who do not realize that in scenic beauty, Maine and the other New England States, have the Pacific Coast grandeur "stopped."

Even the least sanguine of Maine's Minute Man boosters believe confidently that at least one-third more visitors can be attracted the first year

SOME OF "THE GOODS" TOURISTS WANT

Above are shown views of two beauty spots in Maine—the Pine Tree State. At the top is White Head in Portland Harbor and below is Camden Harbor with Mt. Battie and Meganticook in the background. Down the side is a map of the coastline of the State with points indicated to which thousands of tourists flock in the summer. It is indented by hundreds of bays with sandy beaches where boating, bathing and the most wonderful fishing are enjoyed. If straightened out this coastline would reach half-way down the Atlantic seaboard. It is conceded to be one of the most beautiful in the world.

One-third of $50,000,000 is nearly $17,000,000—using the same average.

A tidy sum for providing people with just what they have been seeking!

California and Florida have shown that tourists make for development in agriculture, in industry and in commerce.

The "satisfied customers" return and bring new customers. It is on the customer who returns that the profit in business is made.

The chief need of a salesman is something to sell and Maine, learning her lesson from the influx of visitors, with but little selling, has discovered that she has a large stock in trade.

Picturesque mountains are hers and 2,000 lakes, genus of beauty, as every man who has answered the call of the Maine woods can testify.

Her forests are almost impenetrable and through them roam and flit almost every type of wild game and bird known to the latitude.

Maine fishing is something that anglers talk about for months after leaving the woods.

Then they talk about it for months again before going back into the woods, recalling "big fellows" of the past.

Few people realize that the Pine Tree State, because of innumerable indentations, has a coastline equalling in length one-half the entire Atlantic coast of the nation.

This coastline, with its miles of superbly sandy beaches, is conceded to be one of the most beautiful in the world.

Traversing all this spectacular, spell binding country are fine hard, auto roads, leading through even the wildest game country.

Certainly the Minute Men of Maine, in their new positions as salesmen, have a high-grade line of merchandise to sell—with a side line of health and happiness.

Nor is the terrain itself the only talking point of the salesmen. Men and women of sterling quality have been raised in the rugged Northeast corner of the nation.

With pardonable pride, Maine points to Artemus Ward, to Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, to Sir Hiram Maxim and to Hudson Maxim, as products of her State.

Lillian Nordica is a native daughter, and Annie Louise Cary, Maxine and Gertrude Elliot, Sarah Orne Jewett, Harriet Prescott Spofford and Rebecca Sophia Clark—women who have made their mark in the arts.

From Maine also came Bill Nye, Governor John A. Andrew, Cyrus H. K. Curtis, Sewell Ford, the late Professor Dudley Sargent, Walter M. Lowmyer, Commodore Edward Preble—and a host of other celebrities.

Tourists and the vacation money they have spent, have put California on its feet.

In four months—and summer months, at that—in 1923, tourists left $365,000,000 in California.

They left this prodigious sum because every native son is a booster for his State—so much so that it has become a vaudeville joke.

But California got the tourists—and the money! And the tourists go back again!

Florida has jumped to the lead in the steady gain in its population. The trick has been turned solely through the enticements of its sponsors.

Today the accepted winter resort States are California and Florida—and both are fast forging ahead as summer playgrounds, also.

The answer to the problem has been found by the Maine Minute Men—salesmanship! Not a small amount of gingery exploitation, costing a few cents here and a few there, but a lavish display and a loud horn-blowing that attracts attention—and business.

Where Portland, Oregon, spent $300,000 in telling of Portland and Oregon, the entire State of Maine spent only $25,000, all collected by hard work, with no relieving appropriation.

But nearly $500,000,000 was left in Oregon

by 500,000 tourists, while only $50,000,000 was spent in Maine.

It pays to spread your wares before the buyers' eyes.

Along one important line, Maine has advanced in the past few years, however!

Admittedly the automobile has greatly altered the habits of vacationists. No more is the two weeks spent in one spot—not while the family flivver or the ornate plus-eight is in running order.

The vacationist of today piles his family into the car and keeps rolling—100 to 300 miles a day.

Even the poorest spends his vacation money with a free hand that he would not dream of exercising during the balance of the year.

But the automobile called for good roads and for a long period good roads were what Maine lacked.

"Keep out of Maine," the tourists advised one another after a hazardous trip over the old-style highways. "They're terrible."

Publicity, to be sure—but the wrong kind!

Maine saw the light, however, and this evil of modern days has been remedied. Mile after mile of excellent surface has been laid in the Pine Tree State until now Maine can match its highways against those of any other State in the nation.

One such excellent road leads the tourist to Lafayette National Park, the only National park each of the Mississippi River and the only one located on a sea coast.

The park is on Mt. Desert Island, one of the most picturesque locations along the Maine coast.

Yet Lafayette National Park, which rivals Yellowstone Park, is but incidental to the wonders Maine has to offer its visitors.

From the role of "sit-tighters" the Minute Men of Maine have become metamorphosed into "go-getters."

With Governor-elect Ralph O. Brewster as a leader, they have turned into the main road and are fast picking up speed.

If $25,000 as a selling investment will draw $50,000,000 into Maine, how much money will an appropriation of $150,000 attract?

Maine will not be long in returning an answer—and a happy answer!

The Pine Tree State is showing the way to the rest of New England.

Every State in this Northeast corner of the country is a natural summer playground. Every New England State is also a natural winter playground.

A veritable "Charm School" for the education of tourists is the entire New England terrain.

Why not make preparations to market it—beginning now?

Sell New England to the world!

JAY WALKERS AND JOY RIDERS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

A PROPOSITION is on foot in New York City to make it a crime to cross the street in the middle of the block and to confine crossings to the corners where traffic policemen are stationed.

"If such regulations are adopted," says Mr. Dow, secretary to Deputy Commissioner Collier, head of the Safety Bureau, "it will mean the saving of about two hundred lives a year, not to speak of the persons who will be saved from injury."

"Within the nine months of this year 366 persons lost their lives through being hit by motor vehicles. Two hundred and twenty-four were jay walkers who lost their lives not at crossings, and 142 at crossings, but of the latter a large majority were also jay walkers."

Mr. Dow added that when the police have the power to restrain all jay walking, the death toll can be halved.

The danger to the person who crosses the street in the middle of the block is fifteen times greater than that involved in crossing at the corner.

In order properly to protect the public it is not only necessary to subject the motor driver to law, but also the pedestrian. It is becoming more and more difficult to drive a motor through the public streets of a crowded city and the same authority which prevents walking on the railroad tracks should be exerted to prevent people from crossing the street in the middle of the block.

An ordinance of the crime in question should be passed by the Municipal Assembly or, if the city authorities will not do it, then by State legislation.

The public must be protected even against itself and the loss of life and property has been too great, by automobile, to have this matter utterly dismissed.
